

Factors Associated with Postsecondary Credential Completion

When controlling for other variables, female students show higher odds of completing a credential than male students.

