

Odds of Being Persistently or Broadly Disconnected from the Labor Force

Race, special education status, gender, and local wage levels are all associated with higher likelihood of being persistently or broadly disconnected.

